1941 BUDGET BEFORE GALION COUNCILMEN

Proposal Calls for $56,320 for Next Year.

Special to The Star

Special to The Star
GALION. Sopt. 18—The annual budget for 1941 was accepted by city council at its meeting Tuesday night. It calls for $50,320 from general taxation; with $50,000 for the general fund and $6,320 for debt retirement outside the 10 mill limit. Estimated receipts in the general fund are for $71,250, while a 1940 balance of $6,400.58 added to this will bring the total estimated receipts to $77,636.58. The total estimated expenditures are $81,895, with an estimate that $4,238.62 will be overdrawn at the close of 1941.

an estimate that $4,238.62 will be overdrawn at the close of 1941. The budget allows that three-tenths mills be taken from taxation with the 10-mill levy for the police pension fund, and also 3 mills for the firemen's pension fund. This will amount to an estimate of $2,900 for each fund. Another liem on the budget this year is $5,000 which is allowed for operating fund for the new city hospital.

A supplemental annual appropriation ordinance was passed for the following expenditures: $460 to be taken from the general fund to pay for street repairing, gen to be taken from the general fund to pay for street ropalring, general administration, garbage and sewer disposal plant maintenance; and $10,650 from the water works fund for pipe extension, meters, office, maintenance and employes expenditures; and $1,000 from the auto fund for street maintenance and repair fund. A resolution was passed authorizing Mayor W. M. King to request the Crawford county commissioners for aid in re-surfacing Harding Way East from the Big Four railroad cracks.

The Studebaker automobiles for 1941, including the new stream-lined Land Cruiser models, were placed on display today at the C. C. Brown Motor Co. showroom at 133 West Church street.

Being featured by Studebaker this year is the Land Cruiser stylling, especially designed by company engineers to make the carsolwer, roomier and more graceful in appearance, than previous Studebakers. The other models embrace slight variations of the Land Cruiser design.

The new Studebakers are being offered in three lines—Champlons, Commanders and Presidents. The Champlon, which comes in the low price field, is available in several coupes, two-door sedans and four-door sedans in the choice of custom, custom deluxe and "delux-tone" editions. The Commander and President lines also are offered in complete groups of models, including a four-door sedan and the Land Cruiser four-door model.

Horsepower of the Commander's 6-eylinder engine has been increased to 94 at 3,600 revolutions per minute. The President's 8-cylinder engine develops 117 horsepower at 3,800 revolutions per minute.

The power plants of both the President and the Commander have aluminum alloy pistons, cam ground with three rings and pins locked in connecting rods. Camshafts are driven by Celeron gears—the Commander having four large bearings and the President six. Both Jubrication systems are of full-pressure type.

"This Battle of America"

WENDELL L. WILLKIE'S opening explosion Monday in his active campaign seems to have ruffled a lot of plastered-down hair. This decidedly not what his opponents want Mr. Willkie to do. Even among anti-New Dealers there are some who say they think he should throw nothing at the opposition more damaging

Their attitude is reminiscent of the misgiv-ings in the electric power industry a few years ago when Mr. Willkie refused to pull in his horns on the power issue. The Idea then was that if Mr. Willkie preved the politicians they would gang up and trample the industry to death. Fortunately, he's a hard man to trample; he fights back when he thinks there's something worth fighting for.

Mr. Willkie cornestly believes there is something worth fighting for in this election. He calls the election "This battle of America." He thinks the New Deal is on one side of the proposition and that he and his followers are on the other side-and he intends to talk about it. He hopes to jar his countrymen out of their complacency. The opposition and the namby-pambles between the lines may as well get used to it.

The argument he plans to use starts from this plain contention: That Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal, having failed to strengthen democracy in the years since 1933, can't be expected to strengthen it in the years after 1940, The nation needs leadership which it has not been getting; it cannot get better leadership by voling in the same old crowd. Mr. Willkie doesn't say so in as many words, but he seems mindful of the fact that Great Britain was bogged down hopelessly until it rid itself of the Chamberlain government which was responsible for the bog-

This charge naturally makes the completent crowd feel hot and bothered inside. Its members, mostly without realizing it, are dangerously close to the point of not wanting to be bothered about government any more. They hate to hear anyone say unpleasant or starming things. They're the people who yelled, "Shame!" when Col, 'Lindbergh said Germany was way out shead in military airplane production, then yelped, "Why didn't someone tell us about this?" when the airplanes began spreading violent death over Europe.

Wendell Willkle's telling his countrymen how far the New Deal has led them astray on their andless search for a better American society. The importance of his Coffeyville speech, aside from the fact it was his first formal address since his acceptance speech at Elwood, is disclosure that he doesn't intend to pull his punches, His style of fighting calls for swinging from the ground up; he hasn't abandoned it.

Nothing would have pleased Mr. Roosevelt and his third term campaign advisors more than to find Mr. Willkie was so impressed by his sudden elevation to political prominence that he had become afraid to speak out. Whatever early hopes they may have entertained along that line now are shattered. Mr. Willkie is not going to play into their hands. He is not going to soothe the feelings of erstabile sympathizers who think he should conduct a quiet, academic campaign. He is going to campaign the only way he knows how to campaign-vigorously. It may bring on laryngitis and induce an acute case of cold feet and hot flashes in the Rooseveli Forever moment, but that's Wendell Willkle's style. and apparently he's not going to make himself over at this late date,

Let's Have 'Em

SOMETHING has been missing, but an acquaintance who likes to sit on the 50-yard line says it will show up soon. Those football pictures which show the Flunk university Mustangs galloping over the turf on mustangs, whatever they are, haven't shown up yet.

There was one silly shot of the Dartmouth Indians wearing Indian false faces, but that was childish. It was something like taking a picture of Ohio State's Buckeyes wearing buckeye necklaces. The thing in pigskin promotion is to show originality, to get away from the obvious, to find a new slant. The weather has turned bracing lately. Let's have the pictures. We can stand 'em.

Revolutions Have To Be Started

THERE are few effects in big league politics these days without a cause. If there is political violence in Mexico, for instance, it constitutes circumstancial evidence that someone is promoting it for a reason. The obvious reason in Mexico's case is to give the United States-something to worry about. The obvious reason for giving the United Stales something to worry about in Mexico is to keep it from worrying about something in Europe.

This is pure surmise. Nevertheless, now is the time to lay it on the table where it can be seen and duly considered. Signs multiply day by day that Mexico is getting ready to stage some kind of a revolution. If and when the lid blows off, it will be time for Americans to start looking through the woodpile for the well known Ethiapian. Revolutions in Mexico have to be started; they aren't spontaneous combustion.

Details of Roosevelt-Bankhead Clash at Chicago Disclosed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Ins and outs of President Roosevell's inside encounter with Speak re Bankhead at Chicago have never been told. The southern gentieman, who was only incidentally an eminent statesman, kept his counsel and there has been no need for Mr. Roosevelt to speak. But you will recall it was Bankhead for Mr. Roosevelt to speak. But you will recall it was Bankhead first was election of the nomination of Henry Wallace as vice-presidential candidate, and staged the President's direction of the nomination of Henry Wallace as vice-presidential candidate, and staged the president's direction of the nomination of Henry Wallace as vice-presidential candidate, and staged the president of the context of the context of the strain two days. If this be a matter so important, it may be asked why it was not written into the Constitution, or added by amendment. There were those who saw that it should be done. The majority felt that the danger could be averted by a wise distribution of powers and an indirect method of election.

THEREAFTER, the example set Thereafter, the example set by Washington, followed by Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, who thought to have forever determined that no President should be more than once re-elected, in the year of Jackson's first inauguration it was declared on the floor of the house by a member who later was elected President that an explicit amendment was unnecessary because:

Although many attempts at Although many attempts at amendment have since been made, they have failed because public sentiment considered the unwritten law sufficiently binding. It remains for the electorate this year to so thoroughly repudiate a candidate who acclaims himself the only one fitted to fill that high office that never again will any individual yield to such delusions of grandeur.

Those who think clearly have long recognized that the greater the power attached to any office, the greater the danger of con-the greater the danger of con-tinuing it long in the same hands. Jefferson so believed. That truth was asserted over and over by Andrew Jackson.

Another great Democrat, Grover Cleveland, said:

"When we consider the patronage of this great office, the alurements of power, the temptation to retain public office once again, and more than all the availability a party finds in an incumbent when a horde of office-holders, with a zeal born of benefits received and fostered by the hope of favors yet to come, stand ready to ald with money and trained political assistance, trained political assistance, we recognize in the eligibility of the President for re-election the most serious danger to that caim, deliberate and intelligent action which must characterize a government by the people."

The vastly increased powers of the President are the impelling reason why we must not permit this wise provision of our unwritten constitution to be repudiated. Our chief executive is today an all-powerful figure. Under his direction, reaching out into the smallest and most remote thereing, there moves an army the million mark and increasing daily.

The disburses with a free hand each year uncounted billions. His authority over the daily lives and netivities of our people has passed beyond all established bounds. The requirements of national defense will place at his disposal as commander-in-chief an army, a navy and an air-force more powerful than any the more powerful than more powerful than any the world has seen.

Of him it may well be said: "Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world like a colossus—"
To permit such a colossus to perpetuate himself in office would be, as both houses of congress have declared, "unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

Awake Americans! The spirits of departed patriots cry out to you — "be on your guard." Let you — be on your guard." Let there be no further usurpation of power. Answer with your ballots that you want no third term President.

Experience of France Seen as Example from Which U. S. Can Learn.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

After an abrence of two months on her farm in Varmont, Durothy Thompson, noted wontan commentator on world affairs, today resumes her column. On the Record. In The Star. Her articles will appear on the editorial page three times weekly.

IN TWO months of reprieve from the task of constant comment on the shifting scene, I have forced myself ruthlessly to regard and earnestly to contemplate the example of France.

posal of France, made a better showing.

To attribute the collapse to the German and Russian fifth columns begs the question. Spain's "rabble" army, beset by an armed fifth column assisted by the positive or negative collaboration of the whole western world, made a great showing. It took four years to defeat the Spanish loyalists and four weeks to defeat France.

Social Order Fails

to dereal the Spanish loyalists and four weeks to defeat France.

Social Order Fails

It was not the French army alone that collapsed. First-hand information has begun to come through. I have talked with an American friend who drove an ambulance at the front. I have talked with another friend—an anti-Hitler German—who escaped from a French concentration camp in a town occupied by the German army and walked from Brittany to Marseilles through German lines and French lines, in and out, in an escape which is a miracle. I have talked with others. French soldiers were deserted by their officers. They fought with ancient rities. They were left without ammunition. The disorganization was prodigious. Government officials, from prefect to prime minister, fled. There was chaos.

What collapsed in France was not an army. It was a social order. It was a world. That world was not exploded by bombs. It collapsed at a push. It was a whited sepulcher.

Also, I rocall my own sense of doom, accumulating as I moved from one place to another in Europe during April and May—a sense of doom that was like a tight, constricting band around my head and heart. It grew with every interview I had with an Allied diplomat. Writing from Europe, I described it as a sense of dream and nightmare—the nightmare of German power, visting and arriffic—and the vacuous somolence, the simpleton security of a world dreaming in the track of an approaching cyclone. In the Maginot line, in the offi-

Part in Parade.

Approximately 500 Marion county residents were among some 25,000 persons who yesterday attended the annual Ohio Farm Bureau field day at the state fairgrounds in Columbus. The Marion county delegation was accompanied by the Lattue High achool band which marched in a three-mile parada around the race track. Other local units in the parada included a county float and a marching unit composed of directors and employee of the Marion County Farm Bureau Co-Operative, the Marion County Rural Electric Co-Operative and the Marion County Farm Bureau Co-Operative, the Marion County Farm Bureau LeRey Shreats of near Green Camp led the parade on horse-back, carrying the Marion County Farm Bureau bauner.

The float, drawn by four apotted horses owned by L. M. Wickersham of Claridon township, enrited banners depicting the development of the Farm Bureau and describing the various phases of its program such as the county co-operative, the electric co-operative, credit union, advisory councils and youth, groups.

A barbecue dinner was served at noon and the afternoon program included talks by Gov.
